Amazon.com: avr-991
Denon has been making A/V receivers for about as long as there have been A/V receivers, and it's rarely produced a bad one. The brand usually gleams more attention for its uber-dollar high-end models than for the kind of high-value, midprice models that win the credit-card swipes of most buyers. But this new AVR- 991, with its suggested price under $1,000 and its rich feature set, may change ...

DENON- Enhance the entertainment experience
The Denon AVR-991 is a very capable mid-level entry into the world of 7.2 channel surround sound. Missing are pricier higher end features on the 3311ci as well as THX certification, 9 or more channels of amplification, and WiFi connectivity. The 991 is available online and in local retailers for around $999.00.

The AVR-991 packs a punch with 7-channels of onboard amplification producing 1120-watts of total power (160 per channel @ 6-ohms) delivering detail and dynamics to music and movie soundtracks. The amplifiers can be assigned for 7.2 channel surround sound, or a 5.2 channel system in the "main" room and power a pair of speakers in a second "zone".

Denon AVR991 Home Theater Receiver avr-991
Denon's current lineup still shows four A/V receiver models above the modest AVR-991, culminating in the AVR-5805 at a lofty $5,500. But candidly, I pity the salesperson tasked with stepping up customers from the AVR-991 to, say, the AVR-4311, introduced at roughly the same time and precisely twice the price.

Test Report: Denon AVR-991 A/V Receiver | Sound & Vision
I recently purchase a Denon AVR-991 Receiver to replace my broken Yamaha receiver. The Denon was easy to set up and connect to my surround sound speakers. The setup menu is available on the TV monitor and very easy to use. The receiver is a 2 zone system and provides excellent sound quality to both zones. An excellent receiver for the price.
